Required materials:

Heine, S. J. (2016). Cultural psychology (3rd Edition). New York: W. W. Norton.

4 academic journal articles:

Reading 1: Mesoudi, A. (2016). Cultural evolution: Integrating psychology, evolution, and culture. Current Opinion in Psychology, 7, 17-22. doi: 10.1016/j.copsyc.2015.07.001

Reading 2: Cheung, B. Y., Chudek, M., & Heine, S. J. (2011). Evidence for a sensitive period for acculturation: Younger immigrants report acculturating at a faster rate. Psychological Science, 22(2), 147-152. doi: 10.1177/0956797610394661

Reading 3: Wilson, K. (2003). Therapeutic landscapes and First Nations peoples: An exploration of culture, health and place. Health & Place, 9(2), 83-93.

Reading 4: Kurtiş, T., & Adams, G. (2013). Toward a study of culture suitable for (Frontiers in) cultural psychology. Frontiers in Psychology, 4, 392. doi: 10.3389/fpsyg.2013.00392

Course website: This class uses the Connect platform (www.connect.ubc.ca). Use your campus-wide login (CWL) to access Connect. There, you will find the electronic version of this syllabus, all lecture slides, assignment information, and extra resources that can help you succeed in this course. I also strongly encourage that you use the discussion board there to start some discussions!

PSYC 307 and the Psychology program: The prerequisite for PSYC 307 is both PSYC 101 AND PSYC 102. PSYC 307 is a component of the Personality/Social stream for a psychology major. While not a degree requirement, it expands on foundational information from general survey courses such as 305A (Personality) and 308 (Social).

What PSYC 307 is all about:

The boring version: So cultures differ, eh? And some are the same? How so? (yawn)

The interesting version: You are an alien from Omicron Persei 8 called Lrrr. You want to invade Earth by blending into “Earth culture;” but as you monitor the Earthlings from a distance, you notice a lot of things that you do not understand, prompting you to ask:

“Why do some people insist on staying with their parents for such a long time, while others don’t?”

“Why do some people insist on choosing a mate? That takes so much work and effort!”

“How is there such diversity across the small planet, but everyone is the same back home on the big planet of Omicron Persei 8?” and

“Seriously. WTF is this class about?”

If you didn’t ask these questions, that just means you’re not Lrrr, or you haven’t thought this much about culture before; but by the end of this course, you will be asking those questions!

The purpose of this course is to help you gain an appreciation for the numerous ways in which culture surrounds us, is in the air, and can have real impact on our psychology and behaviours. We will equip you with the frameworks and theories with which you can understand the world of culture that surrounds you a more scientific manner. As part of this learning process, this course will help you learn how to read and critique the primary sources of this field – journal articles in social psychology.

When this course ends, students successfully meeting the course requirements will be able to:

- Identify and explain the ways in which various cultures are different/similar to each other
- Apply cultural psychological theories to explain and understand real-world issues
- Compare and contrast cultural psychology is different from, similar to, and contributes to, other related fields of studies
- Use appropriate resources to locate empirical journal articles
- Understand and critically analyse published empirical journal articles

Assessments of learning:

- FunDay Fridays (2 x 7.5%): One key goal of the course is to help you learn how to read and understand academic journal articles in cultural psychology. To do this, you will complete two 2-to-3-page assignments over the course of the term, in which you will summarise, critique, and expand on, readings 2 and 3. More information will be given in class. Due dates are the dates for which the readings are assigned – submit both hard copy and Turn-It-In. Late penalty = 10% per day, starting from the beginning of class.
- Midterms (2 x 26%): There will be two non-cumulative midterms throughout the course of the term. These exams will take place on February 6 and March 13. Examinable material will include information from both lectures and textbooks.
- Final (32%): The final exam will be cumulative of all materials covered throughout the term. The date and location of your final exam will be determined by the Office of the Registrar. Please check the Student Services Centre website for more details once the exam schedule has been released.
- Early Alert (1%): Students who are in need of help (counselling, financial, housing, etc.) may not seek the necessary services for help for various reasons, including lacking knowledge of appropriate services. This UBC initiative provides aid to these students as early as possible by allowing me to better connect such students to the relevant resources. Students can, thus, get the support they need before problems become too onerous. As a supporter of this initiative, I ask that you read the short blurb about it on the course's Connect website, and click on the checkbox to acknowledge that you have read it (which will give you the 1%). This means neither that you support this initiative, nor that you intend to use it, only that you have read it and understood what it is. Let me know if you have any questions or concerns. Due February 15.
- HSP (+3%): What's a better way to get some bonus marks than to contribute to science? Sign up for up to 3 hours' worth of studies in the UBC Department of Psychology after obtaining an account here: <https://hsp-psych.sona-systems.com>. Deadline for HSP credits is April 5. Alternatively, you may choose to write a 500-word summary on specific journal articles. Each summary = 1%, and must be submitted along with the article. Note that you may not write a summary on any of the journal articles we discuss in class. Full information, including submission guidelines, is provided here: http://psych.ubc.ca/files/2014/04/Info for Participants 2013 .docx

*All written work for this course MUST be written independently. UBC subscribes to the Turn-It-In system, which compares submitted work to other sources on its database (including work submitted by your peers) to check for potential plagiarism. Plagiarism is a serious offense, and shall also be dealt with seriously. All written work must be submitted to Turn-It-In at <http://www.turnitin.com>. If you do not already have an account, please create one, join the appropriate section using the class ID next to your TA's name in the introduction above, and use the password culture307.

HSP summaries are submitted elsewhere: ID = 13369088; assignment name = Library Option for HSP; password = research.

Assessments of Learning – Summary:

Assessment of Learning	Points	Due Dates

Midterms (2 x 26%)	52%	Feb 6; Mar 13
Final exam	32%	TBA; Date set by registrar
Early Alert	1%	Feb 15
Total	100%
HSP credits	+ 3%	Apr 5

The social media experience:

What I want students to do is to take course material out of the classroom – see psychology live and breathe in their daily lives. To accomplish that, I encourage everyone to use the course hashtag #ubcpsyc307 to tweet about how you see cultural psychology operating in real life. I will occasionally compile tweets from members of the class and discuss them in class.

Classroom norms:

Use of class time: I will make good use of the 50 minutes allotted for the class to deliver the material to you. In return, I ask that you, also, be ready to learn and be engaged when class starts, and to wait until the full 50 minutes have ended before packing up to leave. Otherwise, it can be quite disruptive to others.

Classroom Activities: Throughout this course, we will engage in classroom activities that are designed to help you learn and grasp key concepts in scientific research. Some of them may be silly, but they are intended to facilitate your learning. I will join you in not taking ourselves seriously for those moments. Act like kids, check our egos at the door, and have fun!

Also, I have not assigned an i>clicker to save everyone some money. In return, I ask that you actively participate in class.

Consideration for others: My role is to provide the best learning environment for you, to the best of my abilities. I take this role very seriously. It is up to you whether you will make use of the learning environment – a choice that I respect. It is not acceptable, however, that one's personal choice to not make use of the learning environment detracts from other people's learning experience. This includes gaming, watching movies, talking on the phone, Skyping, and making out. Please refrain from activities such as these that may be distracting to students around you.

Emailing:

Logistics: While students take priority in my inbox, I am not always available to respond. I will try to answer within 24 hours.

Email content: The syllabus is usually a good source for answers to your questions. Also, students may miss a concept for a variety of reasons; but it is difficult and cumbersome to address such questions via email. For these reasons, please:

- Check the syllabus first for questions related to the course format
- Visit my office hours or the TFs' office hours if the question is going to elicit a lengthy response (> 5 sentences) – we would love to explain things to you in person!

The “?” Box:

At the front of the class, you will see a small box with a “?” label. This is an opportunity to anonymously:

- Pose questions about materials that you find to be unclear
- Give feedback/make suggestions about my teaching

I will do my best to address these at the beginning of the following class. If I am not able to address it in class, talk to me and I can still address it to you privately.

Academic Concessions and Other Grading Concerns:

Over the course of a term, students may experience various forms of distress, be they medical, emotional, psychological, or others, which may affect their performance. In such cases, it is imperative that you speak with me before the exam time or assignment due date. Under certain circumstances, you may be able to obtain academic concession from the Dean of your faculty. You MUST have documents supporting your claim (e.g. doctor's note). To ensure equity for all students, special accommodations cannot be made after an exam has been written, or assignments have been submitted. Also, the weighting of each learning assessment cannot be changed.

Academic and Non-Academic Misconduct:

Academic misconduct, such as cheating or plagiarism, is a serious offense, and may be subject to punishment by the university. UBC has clear policies about what academic misconduct means: <http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3,54,111,959>. Evidence of academic misconduct may result in a “0” grade for the exam or assignment in question, and may prompt more severe punishment as the University deems appropriate.

Non-academic misconduct includes, but is not limited to, physically threatening an instructor. This is also a serious offense, and is also subject to similar punishment by the university. UBC has clear policies about what non-academic misconduct means:

<http://www.calendar.ubc.ca/vancouver/index.cfm?tree=3,54,750,0>. Punishment for both types of misconduct may include, but is not limited to, a non-removable notation on the transcript, or suspension from the University.

More information about these issues, including annual reports of student discipline cases at UBC, can be found here: <http://universitycounsel.ubc.ca/discipline/>.

Department of Psychology's Grading Policies:

In the interest of promoting equity across multiple sections of the same course, and to prevent grade inflation, the Department of Psychology has instated grading policies, with which all PSYC courses must comply. For 300/400 level psychology courses, the average final grades across all sections must fall within the range of 66-70%, with a standard deviation of 13%. Scaling may be done to bring the class average in accordance with this policy. The scaling may be done by the instructor, or by the Department. Thus, a student's grade is not official until it appears on a student's transcript.

Withdrawal Dates:

If you wish to drop this course without a "W" (or "Withdrawal") on your transcript, the deadline to do so is January 17. If you wish to drop this course with a "W" on your transcript, the deadline to do so is February 10. I will shed a tear for every student who drops.

Bagels with Ben:

Does ANYONE like being in an environment that's stuffy and overly academic? Probably not, and that's one reason why people often get too intimidated to go to office hours. Every week, either on Thursday (11 am) or on Friday (4 pm), I'm going to be at the Niche Café by the Beaty Museum. I will bring Bagels, you bring whatever you want, and we're just going to chat the time away. Everyone is welcome, but a group of 10-15 or so will be specifically invited each week! Your TAs might drop by on occasion.

Materials from this syllabus is based on the syllabi of Dr. Catherine Rawn and Alyssa Croft
